

Morals

- We all are born as empty vessels that moral values can shape.
- Family and moral values are central to everything. What we learn becomes part of who we are.
- Moral education has to be an inherent part of the school system.
- Human rights are a moral thing.
- If people are good because they fear punishment and hope for reward, we are a sorry lot indeed.

