My

Practice Booklet

Dear Teachers, Parents and Caregivers

This booklet is part of the main Safety Workbook and designed to explore the implicit learning aspects embedded within the workbooks across a wide range of subjects, including General Knowledge, Environmental Studies, Social Science, Mathematics, Science, and so on. Serving as scholastic extensions, they provide structured opportunities for practice and deeper engagement with subject-specific content, while complementing the co-scholastic content of the workbook chapters, thereby fostering holistic education and integrated learning, as emphasised in the National Education Policy (NEP, 2020). The booklet is one of the resources available to children-students under Project CACA.

Cue Box:

- a – Tell someone (if there is danger, no consent, threats or bribes, or a power imbalance).
- b – Consider telling someone (if it involves distress, feeling stressed or stuck, or needing help).
- c – It is okay to keep this a secret (if it is a safe, happy surprise or involves no harm).

The paragraphs in the following story are numbered A to F. Write the appropriate number (1 to 6) from the cue box for each paragraph.

Aarav loved school, but one afternoon, something made his stomach feel tight. During the lunch break, a group of older students began teasing him near the staircase. One of them stood too close, blocking his way. Aarav felt unsafe, but he didn't know what to do. He stayed quiet, hoping it would stop on its own. A - ____

Just then, Aarav remembered what his teacher had once said: "If a place doesn't feel safe, you don't have to stay there." Slowly, he turned around and walked away from the staircase and sat near the playground where other students were present. His heart was still beating fast, but he felt a little better. B - ____

Later in class, the teacher asked everyone to share something that scared them. When Aarav said he felt scared near the staircase, a few children laughed. "Why are you scared of something so silly?" one student said, giggling. Aarav felt embarrassed and looked down at his desk. C - ____

After school, Aarav couldn't stop thinking about what had happened. His chest felt heavy. Finally, he went to his class teacher and said softly, "Ma'am, I need help. Something happened today, and I didn't feel safe." D - ____

His teacher listened carefully and said, "Thank you for telling me, Aarav. You did the right thing." She encouraged him to speak to the school counsellor as well. Sitting in the counsellor's room, Aarav took a deep breath and said honestly, "I was scared, and I didn't know what to do." E - ____

That evening, Aarav told his mother everything—how he felt unsafe, how people laughed, and how afraid he was. His mother hugged him and said, "I'm proud of you for telling me. Being scared doesn't make you weak. Speaking up makes you brave." F - ____

Aarav went to bed that night feeling lighter. He knew now that fear was not something to hide, and that help always begins with telling someone.

Cue Box:

1. Telling a trusted adult
2. Admitting fear honestly
3. Walking away from unsafe situations
4. Staying silent despite feeling unsafe
5. Asking for help
6. Laughing at other's fear

Good Friends Are for Keeps, But...

Briefly describe the following friendships.

Queen Victoria and Abdul Karim

Srinivasa Ramanujan and Godfrey H Hardy

George Harrison and Ravi Shankar

Based on the following story, match the role of the by-stander.

Every day after lunch, Aarav took the long way back to class. It helped him avoid the cricket ground, where Rohan usually waited. That afternoon, Rohan spotted him anyway. “Look who’s walking like a scared cat,” Rohan said loudly, blocking Aarav’s path. He snatched Aarav’s notebook and held it up. The laughter began. Rohan enjoyed being in control and knowing others were watching.

Behind him stood two boys, Mohan and Soham, who immediately joined in. “Yeah, maybe he cries in his sleep too,” one said. “Let’s see what else is in his bag,” the other added. They are quick to join Rohan, even though they never start the trouble themselves.

A few students nearby didn’t say anything mean, but they laughed and whispered to each other. Prateek took out his phone to record the scene. “Rohan is so funny,” he murmured. They didn’t touch Aarav, but their smiles and attention told Rohan to continue.

On the other side of the ground, Heera watched quietly. His hands tightened around his water bottle. He knew this was wrong. He felt bad for Aarav—but He also felt scared. What if I’m next? he thought. So, he said nothing and walked away.

Just then, Kabir stepped forward. “Stop it, Rohan,” he said firmly. “This isn’t funny. Give the notebook back.” The ground went quiet. Rohan scoffed, but Kabir didn’t move. “If you don’t stop, I’m calling the teacher.” Rohan threw the notebook on the ground and walked off, muttering. The crowd slowly disappeared.

Kabir picked up the notebook and handed it to Aarav. “You okay?” he asked. Aarav nodded, though his eyes were still heavy. “Thank you,” he whispered.

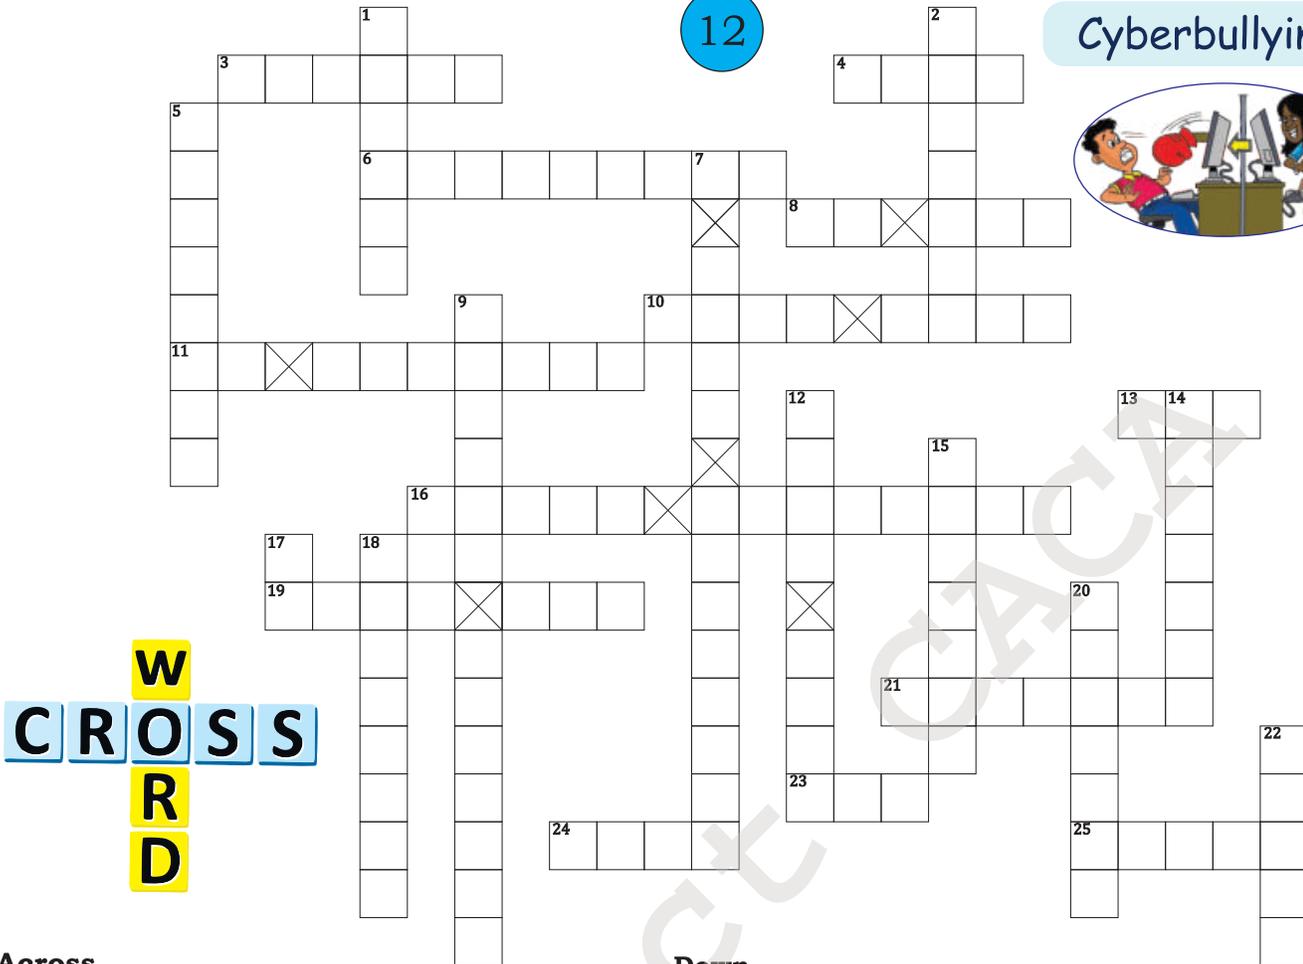

Later that day, Heera found Aarav in the classroom. “I’m sorry I didn’t help,” he said softly. “I was scared.” Aarav looked up. “Next time,” he said, “standing with me would help.” Heera nodded. He knew something important now.

Deliverables: All the above instruments and resources, except the instrument 'Legal and Psychosocial Support for POCSO Survivors', are provided to schools as part of Project CACA. In addition, Project CACA issues certificates for webinars, training sessions and Project implementation to teachers, non-teaching staff, the School Project Coordinator, the Head of School and the school itself. The Project also facilitates the appointment of external members to the POCSO Committee and the PoSH-ICC.

*They are available in English, Hindi and regional languages.

SUPPLEMENTARY RESOURCES:

The Videos, Practice Booklets, Picture-Colour Booklets, Posters, Companion Booklets and more are embedded as QR Codes in the workbooks' chapter. Additionally, page 75 of each workbook is dedicated to the resources in English, Hindi and various regional languages for parents, teachers and support-staff.
